

World History

MR. GOUGH

WORLD HISTORY is a survey course covering History, Geography, and Culture from the rise of the Industrial Revolution to the present. The first semester we will build a historical base by exploring eight units:

- The Rise of Democratic Ideals
- European Revolution
- The Industrial Revolution and Imperialism
- World War I
- Totalitarianism
- World War II
- Regional Conflicts/ Nationalism
- Contemporary World Problems

Using our historical background from first semester, our class will explore five continental regions this spring. These are:

- Soviet Union
- Latin America
- Middle East
- Asia
- Africa

Throughout this semester we will be integrating all aspects of Culture into our world studies. We will also spend considerable time on current events and the current U.S. political situation as it relates to world politics and international relations.

Special Projects:

There will be both individual and group projects throughout the year that will constitute a portion of your grade. Classroom time will be provided for projects such as compiling and writing an oral history, journalistic article writing, map making, and historical evidence examination; however, these projects will be completed mostly outside of class.

Classroom Policy:

There are two policies that I strictly enforce:

1. Students will not interfere with another student's right to learn.
2. Students will not interfere with the teacher's right to teach.

Classroom Behavior:

In our classroom, students are expected to adhere to school rules set forth in the Ponderosa Student Handbook. Specifically, students are expected to:

1. Come to class on time and be prepared to work.
2. Always use appropriate language. Rude, disrespectful, or inappropriate comments will not be tolerated.
3. Stay in class until dismissed.
4. Act in a respectful manner.

Consequences:

Violation of classroom rules will result in the following:

1. Verbal warning
2. Student/ Teacher conference
3. Office referral/ detention assigned

Cheating:

Cheating on an exam or an individual assignment one shows me that one does not respect this class nor one's individual work enough to do their best on their own. I take any act of cheating very personally. Any student involved in cheating will lose credit for that assignment. A second cheating offense will result in the student's failure of the class: a grade of "F."

Attendance/ Make up Work:

Regular attendance is expected for maximum education. If absence cannot be avoided, students will be held responsible for all material covered during their absence. Students should call a classmate when absent to determine what material was covered and when assignments are due. Two days are allowed per absent day for make up work.

Grading:

Grades are recorded as points earned, not as a letter grade. It is to the student's benefit to turn in all work. Any grade is better than zero.

Grading follows straight percentage:

90 - 100 % A

80 - 89 % B

70 - 79 % C

60 - 69 % D

Below 59 % F

Extra Credit:

Every Monday we will spend time discussing current events. Each student has the opportunity to bring in three (3) current events for our discussion over the course of the semester. The student is responsible for explaining the article/ news report to the class and fielding any questions that may arise. Each event is equivalent to one ordinary homework assignment (5 points).

Additionally, there will be a few additional extra credit projects available throughout the semester. These projects typically are based on further study of a particular topic that we will not have time to fully explore in class. However, these projects are reserved for those interested in going beyond the course of study within the class and who have been engaged with the topic up to that point. Extra credit should never be seen as an opportunity to supersede the coursework or as the only means of obtaining a passing grade. After all, you must first have credit in order to get extra credit.
